

Snaps

Story of Angora Cabin on
Tillamook Head, Oregon

1950

1st camp site on Tillamook Head,
where the Angora Hiking Club owns
40 acres of virgin timber.

In the shadow of gigantic
Spruce, called "The Portals"

4303
4-2-50

1950

2d camp site

44612
9-14-51

3d, and final camp site
1950

Squaring up.

4360
July 1980

1450

Foundation goes in 1950

1950

Algonquin Cabin

4364

8-27-50

Up she goes.

1951

What 2 men and a winch can do.

1961

Last layer!

1951

Rafters go up

9-14-60

4410

4412

1952

Splitting the shakes

1952

"Shaking" the roof.

1952

Putting shales on gables

1952

Y554
7-16-52

Sort of drafty

1953

4651 4-1 53

Starting the floor

1953

Floor half done

1953

Cutting window openings

Aint she purty?

Stop to admire

4607

11-8-53

1954

Starting fire place

1954

"Boss" looks tough

Somebody enjoyed carrying that water tank a mile?

1955

Thanks, Pacific Power and Light, for the bricks!

Didn't we have fun?

Washing rocks

Chips fly

Remember those beer bottles
at 3¢ a piece?

Cheer up boys, only a mile to the cabin.

Does this bore you?

"Oatum" Aggie

Cramped?

Chairman in charge of plugging beetle holes

Easy way to wash windows

View from dining window (opening)

1st official dinner party

Boy, you earned it!

